the bench and with dim eyes watched the Ogden team slowly but surely gain a lead that could mean but one thing— another defeat for the team he has so carefully fathered for the past two months. As he sat there silently chewing the end of a Havana, perhaps the big chief thought of the past when the very mention of his name electrified the crowds and wondered why times had changed.

The Big Chief Ponders.

Could it be that he no longer held that cunning in his strong right arm that had sent the hardest batters to the bench after a vain effort to find his puzzling curves? Could it be that he, the one time master of them all, had at last run his course and now must sadly take his place in the rear and watch others do those things he was wont to do?

The game neared its end and yet the big chief made no move as if to stem the tide of certain defeat. Then came the ninth. A look at the score board showed the hateful rivals from Ogden in the lead by the score of 11 to 5. Adams, the new catcher recently imported from California, took the bat for Salt Lake and a two bagger landed nd. The big chief starte for an instant at this turn of affairs and then returned to his musings as Margetts struck out. Brockhoff stepped up and sending a safe one over to left field scored Adams. As Father Kelly slowly stepped to the bat, the big chief was seen to stand on his feet with a half expectant look on his feet with a half expectant look on his face. Bang, a two bagger sent Brockhoff to third and Kelly safely reached second.

Borchers Himself Again.

In an instant Borchers was himself again. His whole appearance changed and hurriedly giving orders, Borchers walked to the plate to bat in Jensen's The crowd wondered as the big chief stepped to the bat and with him scented victory. The first ball over was met squarely and landed out of reach in middle right field. The hit cleared the bases.

It was a signal for victory. The big chief at the last moment had started a stampede that could not be stopped. He, the much knocked manager of the local team, had at the right moment begun the work that would stop the victorious career of the invincible Og- Kelly, p. & c. f.... 6 2 4 3

Up came McNichols and reached fir on a free pass. Jack Huston's thr bagger again cleared the bases. T score now stood: Ogden, 11; Salt La 10. Schils bunted to Casey and Ogden second baseman tried vainly head Huston off at the home, but fai by inches and the score was tied. The effort exhausted the locals : they were retired without doing for Ogden Did Nothing in the Ninth Ogden came up for the last half the ninth but beyond getting Ferris second could do nothing. Salt La fident of victory. Margetts reach first on a hit and Brockhoff's sacrif sent him to second. Kelly's hit sco Margetts and Borchers again came the bat. Bang, a long drive to ri scored Kelly. Neither McNichols Huston could score Borchers and side retired two runs to the good.

Casey came up first for Ogden reached first on Brockhoff's error. Gim-lin advanced him to second. Hausen pitches, Tann 2; sacrifice hits, Brockh struck out and Clark sent a fly to Brockhoff, who muffed it, but picked it up in time to catch Gimlin at second, allowing Casey to score. Nagle fanned and one of the most interesting games of the year was won by Salt Lake by

The game opened with Tann in the box for Salt Lake, but in the second he was replaced by Jensen, a new slab artist signed by Salt Lake. The latter pitched a good, steady game until ninth, when Borchers took his turn

Salt Lake's victory was hard earned and was won although luck was against them throughout. Out of their total of thirteen runs nine of them. total of thirteen runs nine of them shut-out for the locals, who did not were earned, while Ogden did not get score until the seventh. a single man over the home plate who was not assisted by an error.

the latter part of the game, thinking to right, which Eubanks dropped. Sevit was all over. Those who remained, however, railied to the support of the however, railied to the support of the locals as one man and helped them turn defeat into victory. A few more sensational finishes like Salt Lake made allowing four safeties, which, with sational finishes like Salt Lake made yesterday would pack the grounds as it stly should and if the players would all get into the game this would occur.

walks of life. For many days Big Chief Borchers has patiently sat by and watched his team of White Wings go down to defeat. Many are the times when they should have won their games, but luck and all the world seemed to be against Borchers. Yet never once did he falter, but manfully struggled on against big odds until at last victory in her mad flight stopped for a moment, hovered over the White Wings and perched on their banner. It will be remarked that Huston was thrown over to short and third in several games, positions that are entirely foreign to him. Another curious fact that is hard to understand is that Huston, in spite of his high batting average, ties with Schlis, Bradley and King for the greatest number of strike outs. All of these men are hard hitters, but, as will be noted, they frequently fan the air. Brockhoff teads in sacrifice him, and Clark of Ogden in put outs, beating Bill Hoffer of Logan by one. Brockhoff also has the greatest number of assists to his record, for a moment, hovered over the White Wings and perched on their banner. Thomas of Wings and perched on their banner for the first time in many days.

Yesterday the game started out as it frequently has of late, even the fates against the locals. The big chief sat on the bench and with dim eves wetched.

pitcher, has gone. He came from the Salt Lake team to join the Oaklands, but Ewing was unable to make room for him, as the manager already had four pitchers, so Jensen pitched for the Fresnos. The trouble with Jensen was his wildness, making it hard work for a catcher to hold him. When he got the ball close to the plate he puzzled the batters. In a game with Bakersfield he struck out fourteen men. The best thing about his work was his ability to eatth ity to catch base runners off first base. It was difficult for basemen to know when he would throw, as he threw his arm around in all directions, so that of four or five men in each game goose-egged. He had hard luck, for three out of four games he pitched in were lost.

As he failed to secure the support he deserved he became disheartened. He goes back to Salt Lake."

Salt Lake and Ogden Will Probably Be Included Next Year,

W. H. Lucas of the Pacific Northwest Baseball league is in Spokane today and states that there are prospects of an eight-club league for next year. He declines to name the towns that may be added, but says he has had a num ber of applications. It is believed if the change is made Great Falls is likely to be one of the towns, as Lucas states it is anxious for a vacancy to occur in the league.

The above from President Lucas just after his interview with Big Chief Borchers in Butte last week would in-dicate that there is something in the wind for next year that might be of interest to Salt Lake fans. It is just possible that the eight-club league talked of will include Ogden and Salt Lake. It is well known that the powers that be in Salt Lake balldom favor the idea, and while Ogden might not take readily to a league of this kind, yet it might be induced to join. This would of course mean 50-cent ball instead of 25, but the article put up would be far ahead of anything seen in Salt Lake in the past. The Pacific Northwest league, it is understood, is coining monand those who know claim that Salt Lake is a better ball town than any now in that league. If this scheme is carried through, it will give Salt Lake fans an opportunity to see a good baseball as is played anywhere.

JOY AT LOGAN.

Fans Again Rally to Support of Infants.

(Special to The Herald.) Logan; June 21.—As a result of the excellent games played by the Logan team this week, popular favor has once more turned toward Stoney's men, and with such work the team is sure to receive good support, whether it wins or loses, for the players were all in the games from the start to the end. There was apparently the best of feeling between all the men, which developed the same condition as between the public and players.

It was noticeable that when a player made an error the crowd was willing to help him get on his feet again instead of bawling him out, and as a result an article of ball was put up that will win against any team in the league. . The players' encouragement of each other put new life into the game and made the local fans enthusiastic once more. Stoney is being congratulated on the change in the form of his men, and he will have the town at his back in his efforts to land Logan at Buck Changes Regulations.

Before the fishing season opened one of the rules and regulations of the Lagoon team, laid out to them by the ever watchful Buck, was that every member of the team (even including the old man himself) should turn in at night not later than 11 o'clock, but now it's different, because the fish bite best at night, and Father Weaver is a great Buck's Farmers have discarded the old mascot, "Mr. Goat," for a fullblooded spaniel pup, presented to them by the chief of the fire department of Farmington. Since adopting this new mascot the Farmers have won three out of four games, and it's all blamed on the dog. If they should happen to have a losing streak, however, Bradley says he wouldn't give 30 cents for the pup's life, for it will certainly find a grave in the bottom of the lake.

The story of the race is soon told. At Milwaukee-Milwaukee-Omaha game postponed. Omaha team failed to make railroad connections.

Peoria, June 21.—Peoria-Des Moines game postponed. Des Moines failed to make railroad connections. Two games to the race is soon told. There was little delay at the post and Starter Dwyer got them away with a good send off. Otis and Heno at once showed in front, with Wyeth last. Round the turn from the half mile post to the head of the stretch the field came thundering along at a good pace. Otis and Heno had drawn clear of all contenders and already were fighting for tenders and already were fighting for the lead. It was a poor piece of jockeyship. Heno, when let down, drew away from Otis and went round the far turn, increasing his lead until fully three lengths in advance. Otis hung on gamely, and it was not long before Heno began to show signs of coming back. As they rushed round the last turn to the straight run for home, Heno had still the honor of holding first place, but the effort was costing him dearly, and already his stride was beginning to
